Self Defense for Vehicle & Traffic Court And Small Claims Joseph R. Cea

Dedication of Joseph R. Cea: This book is dedicated first and foremost to my wife, Nanette, for putting up with me and my idealistic views of The Constitution that have brought her misfortune by mere association to someone willing to take on an entire police department in the name of justice. Secondly, to my entire family for giving inspiration but especially to my parents for providing life and education, my brother Frank for providing an opposing view to every idea I've ever had, to Daniel for providing enough traffic violations to work with and my grandmother for recognizing the "fighter" in me and to those that helped along the way including Jack Burns and Pamela Clickner. Lastly, to anyone who has ever felt that the traffic violation they were just handed or the mechanic's bill they just received was unjustified and/or completely false but lost in court. Either because they didn't know how to proceed and defend themselves or believed that court procedures were too complicated to bother and decided to drop the case knowing they were cheated.

Dedication of Daniel A. Cea III would like to thank my brother Joseph for giving me the knowledge, drive and inspiration to learn what I have and the opportunity to work with him on this book and help make it a reality. Also to other members of my family: My parents for being endlessly supportive, my brother Frank for being my brother (enough said on that) and my Uncle Mike. I would also like to thank Deans Pamela Pollard and Kevin Slavin of Westchester Community College. If not for their lack of integrity, mistreatment of students and general bad attitudes I would not have the drive to complete this book so I can tell them to "Kiss My"
