KaraDira Blackstar Are Pleased and honoured to announce the launch of its publishing house with its publication of a new exciting, critical and extremely relevant work by first time Author, Arthur Dion Hanna jr., who is currently Director of the Eugene Dupuch Law School Legal Aid Clinic: Land and Freedom - A Return to the Fishing Village: Sabbatical essays from a Legal Aid Lawyer, with Preface by Indira Martin PhD Mr Hanna's Strident and cutting edge legal analysis is, indeed, subversive of the established order, the political elite and ruling elite, the Westminster system of governance and the black letter law traditions, of the black robed white justice of the official common law legal system. This is highly dangerous material for colonialists, imperialists, oppressors and exploiters, because it advocates abandoning the exploitative mechanisms of social injustices and the establishment of a uniquely relevant legal system suited to the diverse and multicultural plural realities of the African people at home and abroad. He boldly beckons the re-emergence of the panAfrican ideal and the establishment of a Unified African reality of Nationhood and independence, with sustainable social and economic development, with respect for nature and the environment and the principles of freedom, justice and equality of opportunity for all, and respect for the multicultural plural realities of the African people at home and abroad. This seminal work will be extremely worrying for many, but for lovers of freedom and justice, and the PanAfrican Ideal, this is a Must Read! Contact KaraDira BlackStar: P.O.
